The Home Port “Kalamata”.

Why sail this area?

- Easy International Airport access "Captain Vas. Konstantakopoulos".
- Predictable weather, sea breezes ideal for recreational sailing, sheltered waters.
- Definitely not a mass tourism area. Still virgin and unexplored scenery spots.
- No packed ports with charter unlike locations in Greece.
- Short distances between anchorages.
- Ancient and medieval historic sites, adventurous activities, exceptional cuisine and vivid night life.
- Athens-Kalamata only 2.30 hours highway driving.

If you've heard about the city of Kalamata, it definitely had to do with the wider region's reputation for producing some of the finest black olives in the world. While olive groves indeed dominate the fields around the city, Kalamata and South Peloponnese has much more to offer than just a salty snack!

INDULGE YOUR SENSES!

Voidokilia Beach

The natural beauty of the South Peloponnese with the indented unspoiled coastline, sandy beaches, forested mountains and fertile valleys, significant archaeological monuments and Medieval castles like “Methoni” and “Koroni”. The visitor can find the beach described as “Place of Particular Natural Beauty” “Voidokilia Beach”, which is part of a Natura 2000 protected area.

Mani Region

The unique contrastive sceneries from "Mani Tower Houses", the turquoise sea water, the rocky coastlines, the picturesque villages, the local food, one of the most beautiful underground water-caves in the world “Diros Caves” are complementary to the visitor's experiences.

Ionian Sea & Zakynthos

Home to the worldwide famous Navagio (Shipwreck) beach and glorified by innumerable travel guides, Zakynthos island is one of the most popular Greek islands! Breathtaking landscapes, exotic beaches with sugar-fine sand and turquoise waters and crazy nightlife.

Elafonisos

And the bucket list can be continued further to Laconic gulf, to a small island of unparalleled beauty in Greece, the seductive “Elafonisos”.
